"Children get off to a flying start in early years. They love being in the different outside spaces, exploring and playing together. Staff have high expectations of behaviour and pupils respond by behaving well. Pupils have positive attitudes towards learning. They become engrossed in practical activities in class. They are keen to discuss what they know and to learn more."

"The school works in partnership with local charities and groups to extend the support for pupils and their families. In-school counselling is available for pupils and parents. A range of therapies is offered which are well received."
